

Proctor Road Update

Our request for safety improvements to Proctor Road from Swift Rd to Beneva Rd is currently being reviewed by the Sarasota County Traffic Engineering Department. I have had several conversations with Donald De Berry, Sr Transportation Manager. He has informed me that there is a current Safe Streets for All (SS4A) grant program with funds set aside for improvements to Proctor Rd. The grant funds improvements to prevent roadway deaths and serious injuries. Our section of roadway was not initially part of the program but he has forwarded our request to the project manager. Mr De Berry has stated that we need as many people as possible to contact our County Commissioner to "push the Proctor Road SS4A project".

Our 4th District County Commissioner is Joe Neunder. His phone number is 941-861-5000. His email address is jneunder@scgov.net. Please contact Mr Neunder to let him know this section of roadway is unsafe and that you support including our area in the SS4A project.

I will keep you posted as I receive updates.

Thank you.

SARASOTA, Fla. — Drivers had to find another route in South Sarasota after a car crash shut down a portion of a roadway, the Sarasota County Sheriff's Office said in a news release.

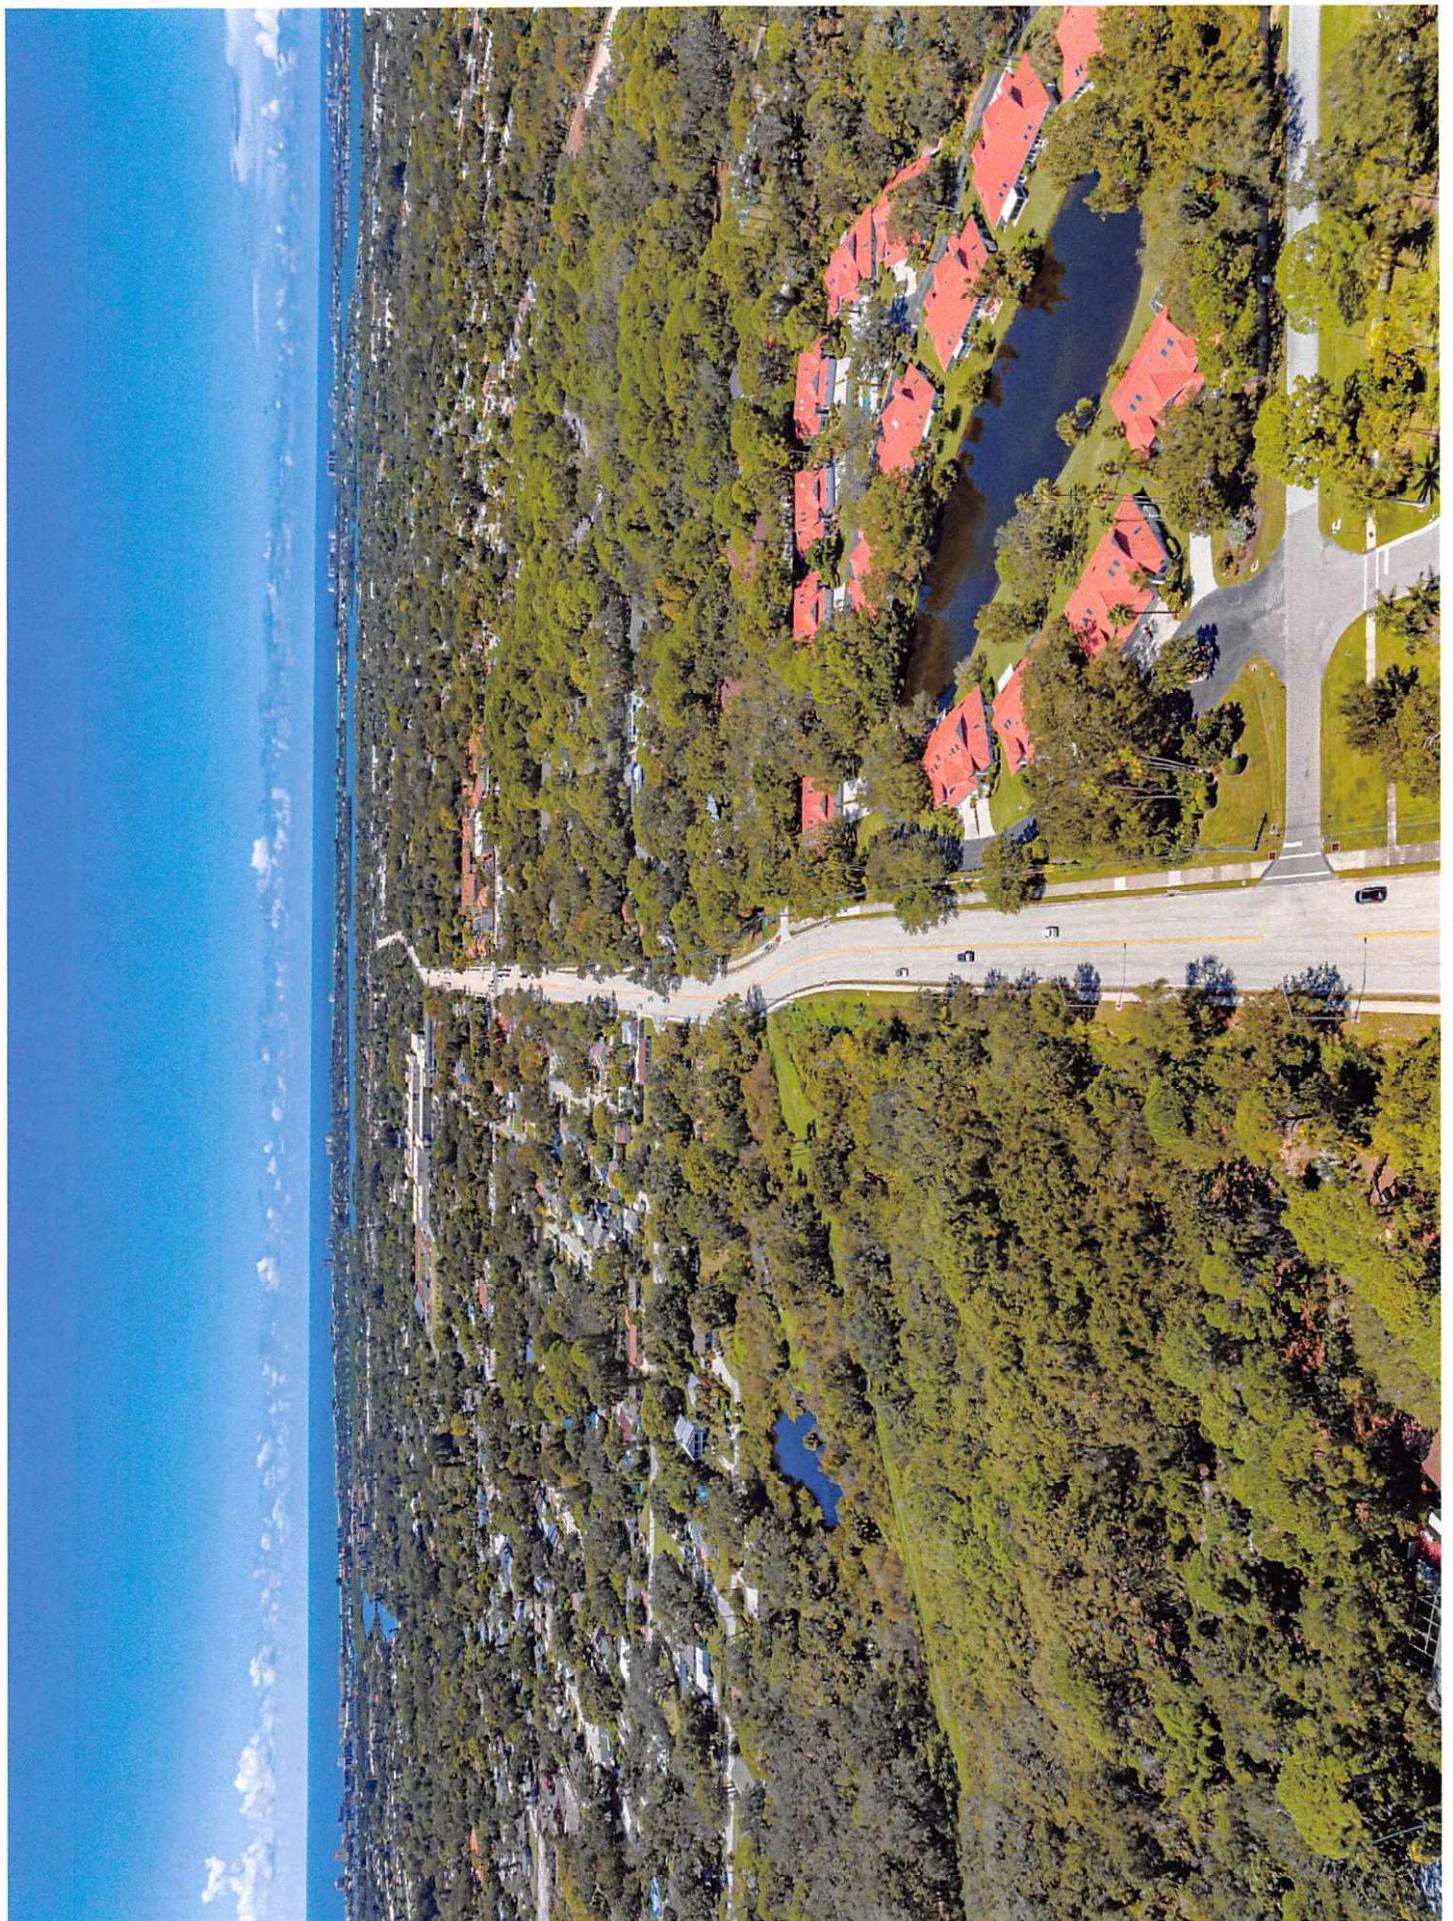

Just before 9 p.m., sheriff's deputies and Florida Highway Patrol troopers responded to a crash involving two cars at Proctor Road and Camphor Avenue. The drivers were both sent to Sarasota Memorial Hospital with major injuries, authorities said. No other injuries were reported at the scene.

1.0 Medians and their Importance for Safety

A restrictive median with well-designed median openings is one of the most important tools to create a safe and efficient highway system. The design and placement of median openings is an integral component of a corridor that manages access and minimizes conflicts.

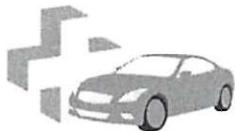

The AASHTO Green Book states, "A median is highly desirable on arterials carrying four or more lanes."

Medians are paved or landscaped areas in the middle of roadways that separate traffic traveling in opposite directions. Medians should be provided whenever possible on multi-lane arterial roadways. The documented benefits of raised medians are so significant that the Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) requires medians for most new multilane facilities with over 40 mph in design.

Source : Plans Preparation Manual Volume 1 Chapter 2.2.2

This guide should help the professional with considerations for medians, median openings, and median design at intersections.

1.0.1 What are the Benefits of Medians?

Properly designed medians provide many benefits including:

Vehicular Safety — medians reduce crashes caused by traffic turning left, head-on and crossover traffic, and headlight glare, resulting in fewer and less severe crashes

Pedestrian Safety — restrictive medians provide a refuge for pedestrians crossing the highway. Fewer pedestrian injuries occur on roads with restrictive medians.

Operational Efficiency — medians help traffic flow better by removing turning traffic from through lanes. A roadway with properly designed medians can carry more traffic, which can reduce the need for additional through lanes.

Aesthetics — In addition to safety and operations, medians can improve the appearance of a corridor. If landscaped, the median can lessen water runoff and enhance air quality.

Restrictive medians help in both low and high traffic situations, but where traffic is high, the benefits are greater.

Properly implemented medians and median openings will result in improvements to traffic operations, minimize adverse environmental impacts, and increase highway safety. As traffic flow is improved, delay is reduced as are vehicle emissions. In addition, corridor efficiency/throughput and fuel economy are increased, and most importantly, crashes are less numerous and/or less severe.

1.1 How Medians Fit in with Access Management

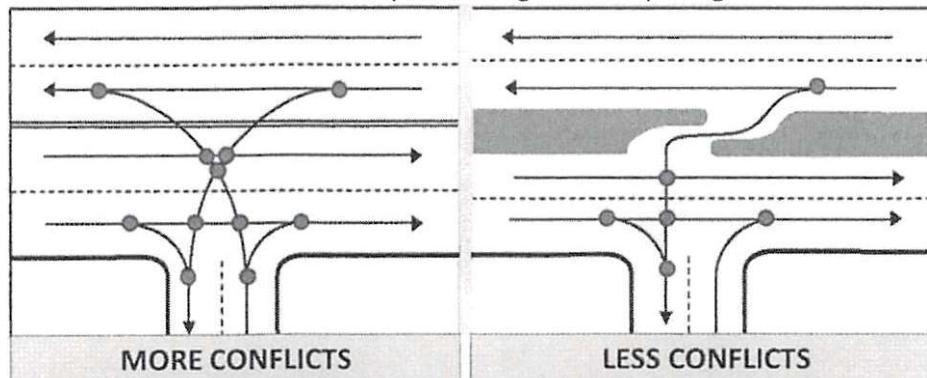

The location and design of medians and their openings will depend on the function of the roadway, to provide appropriate access to the driveways, intersections, traffic signals and freeway interchanges that connect.

1.1.1 What is the Function of a Median Opening?

In order to properly place and design median openings, you should consider the needed function of the opening

- Median openings can provide for cross traffic movement.
- Median openings can allow left turns and U-turns from the highway

Exhibit 1
Reduce conflict points using median openings

A typical median opening that allows all turns has numerous conflict points. One way to limit the number of conflicts is through the design of median openings. The example on the right is a “directional” median opening serving a side street that allows for left-turns from the major street but prohibits left-turns from the minor street. This is a design which greatly reduces the conflict points by limiting the number of allowed turning movements. Through use of restrictive medians, most driveways along the corridor become right-in/right-out driveways.

1.3.2 Multi-lane Facility Median Policy

Multi-lane facility median policy is an integral part to roadway access management

All multilane Strategic Intermodal System (SIS) facilities shall be designed with a raised or restrictive median. All other multilane facilities shall be designed with a raised or restrictive median except four-lane sections with design speeds of 40 mph or less.

Facilities having design speeds of 40 mph or less are to include sections of raised or restrictive median for enhancing vehicular and pedestrian safety, improving traffic efficiency, and attainment of the standards of the Access Management Classification of that highway system.

Multilane Facility Median Policy

Topic #625-000-007 January 1, 2013

Plans Preparation Manual, Volume I

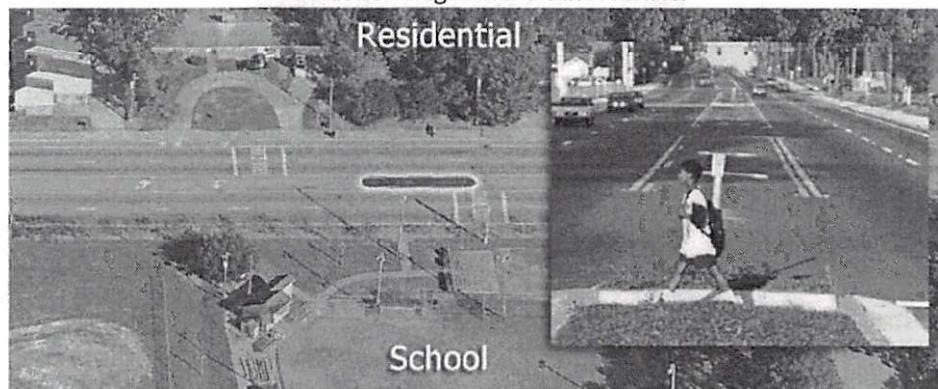

Design Geometrics and Criteria 2.2.2.

Since 1993, the Multi-lane Facility Policy essentially directs all FDOT multilane projects over 40 mph in design speed to have some restrictive median treatments.

It also directs our designers to find ways to use restrictive medians in all multi-lane projects, even those below the 40 mph design speed. An example of a small pedestrian refuge that could be used on a 5-lane section is shown in Exhibit 14.

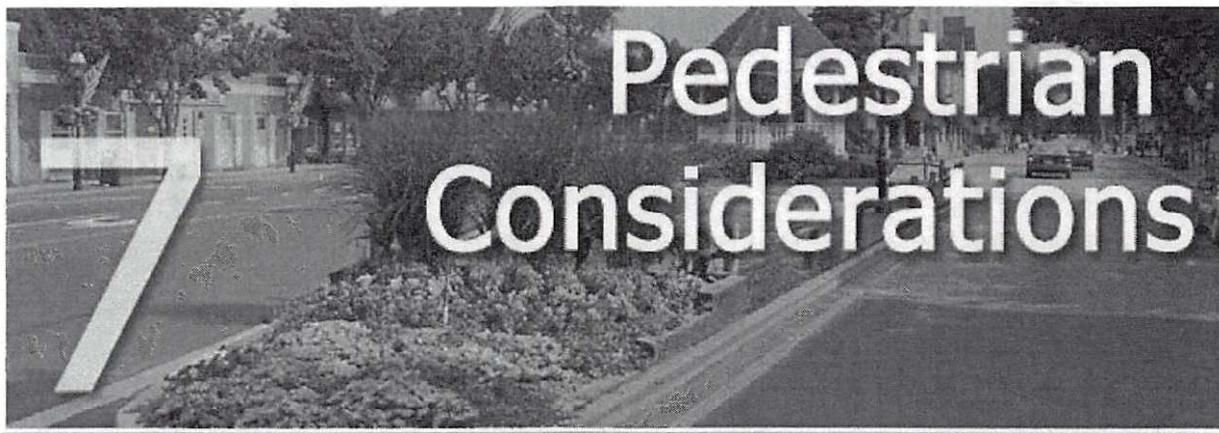

Exhibit 14

Pedestrian refuge on a 5-lane section

What is the impact of redirecting left turns?

One of the impacts of these standards is the concentration of more left turn and U-turns at fewer locations. This requires careful planning of well designed, well placed median openings. In response to this, FDOT created the Median Opening and Access Management Procedure.

7.0 Medians Help Pedestrians

Although medians have significant benefit for vehicle operations, they are also beneficial for pedestrians. Pedestrians are permitted to travel along all non-limited access facilities. Therefore, considerations for pedestrian safety and mobility should be included in median design decisions.

Pedestrian Safety — restrictive medians provide a refuge for pedestrians crossing the highway. Fewer pedestrian injuries occur on roads with restrictive medians.

Pedestrian Mobility — when pedestrian crossing treatments are incorporated into restrictive medians, a complete pedestrian network is provided resulting in improved connectivity.

Pedestrians, transit riders, and cyclists are all users of all non-limited access facilities. Note that bicyclists, for design purposes, are considered vehicles when operating within the roadway and pedestrians when operating within the sidewalk area. When conflict points are well managed as part of a comprehensive approach, all users of the roadway benefit from improved safety and operations.

Multi-lane facility median policy is an integral part to roadway access management

The Multi-lane Facility Policy directs our designers to find ways to use restrictive medians in all multi-lane projects, even on facilities with those below the 40 mph design speed.

An example of a small pedestrian refuge that could be used on a 5-lane section is shown in Exhibit 102.

Here is my story:

While driving westbound on Proctor Road, a challenging route with no dedicated turn lanes, I found myself in a common scenario. The car ahead of me was in the left lane, indicating an intention to make a left turn across oncoming traffic. This maneuver resulted in a line of cars behind it coming to a stop.

In response to the delay, the driver behind the waiting car attempted to overtake it by changing lanes into my path. Regrettably, they did not see my vehicle, and I had to make a quick swerve to the right to avoid a collision. I honked my horn to alert the other driver, and thankfully, my swift reaction prevented an accident.

This kind of potentially dangerous situation occurs frequently on Proctor Road, particularly when the car ahead is in the left lane. It emphasizes the need for better road infrastructure and responsible driving practices to ensure safety for all.

Please let me know if there is anything else you need and I will be happy to help.

Thank you!

RE: Traffic Speeds on Proctor Road

To Whom This May Concern:

Please make changes to Proctor Road to slow down the wildly speeding traffic. Daily, I play a game of "dodge 'em" turning in to Unity Church at 3023 Proctor & pulling out.

When I put my turn signal on to make a left into the parking lot, the car in back of me swerves out of the way, but the car in back of me of course does not know about my car, so they come perilously close before pulling out as well. This is dangerous & unnecessary - but traffic is moving so fast, it's unavoidable.

The Sheriff car often positions in our driveway & we appreciate their vigilance; however, this is not often nor comprehensive.

It is very important to slow traffic down - there are senior on this street, two houses of worship with mainly seniors driving in & out of them, cyclists & pedestrians all over, not to mention the schools farther up the street & the flow associated with them.

Please help! Thank you.

Dear Sarasota County Commissioners,

Curious and Kind Education has opened an enrichment program for children ages 5-12 at Unity of Sarasota (3023 Proctor Rd). We have 17 children three days a week on the premises. Curious and Kind Education is a partner with the Sarasota County Parks and Recreation, meaning that we share a mission and vision and, thus have aligned offering programming in the parks to serve the community.

Curious and Kind Education was drawn to offer classes at Unity of Sarasota with the initial idea that children could enjoy part of their day at Red Bug Slough Preserve. However, after watching the traffic, there is no way that I can cross children, let alone adults, safely. Recently, there was an accident involving a minivan that took out half the guard rail right in front of Unity of Sarasota which indicates that even walking on the sidewalks along Proctor Rd between Swift and Beneva Rd is not even safe. I then thought I would walk up to the nearest crosswalk to cross, but the nearest crosswalk is 0.5 miles away. If people used the crosswalk at Swift to access Red Bug Slough most would be walking 1 mile just to enter the park and then a mile just to get back home. This is unreasonable.

Access to public lands is important and the Proctor Rd side of Red Bug Slough Preserve is the least visited because few people can access it due to the lack of a crosswalk and unsafe pedestrian environment along Proctor Road.

I am strongly urging you to put a crosswalk and light across Proctor Road at Camphor Rd. This would benefit the community on three accounts:

- 1) The crosswalk and light will allow folks from Unity of Sarasota and residents of the North side of Proctor Rd to have access to Red Bug Slough Preserve, which is a hidden gem of a park!
- 2) The crosswalk and light will bring attention to drivers along Proctor Rd to be more diligent and mindful as they drive down this road.
- 3) Many people have shared that cars have honked when having to slow down as they have been making a turn into Unity of Sarasota's parking lot. This demonstrates the lack of awareness drivers have to the goings on of the community along Proctor Rd.

Please take action to make Proctor Road between Swift and Beneva safer for all of us who are pedestrians in that area. I strongly urge you to immediately put a crosswalk and light in at Proctor Rd and Camphor Road to do your due diligence in preventing harm.

Thank you for your diligence and care,

Justine Wilson

Dear Sarasota County Commissioners,

We, the children who attend Curious and Kind Education's enrichment program at Unity of Sarasota, would benefit from having a crosswalk at the intersection of Proctor and Camphor Rd so that we can safely cross the road to explore and play in Red Bug Slough Preserve. We attend Curious and Kind classes weekly and would love to extend our learning into the public park. The crosswalk would make this possible.

Thank you for your consideration,

Children of Curious and Kind Education (and their parents)
